PRESS RELEASE
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Spectacular lakeside fireworks and luminous surprises will wrap-up Beaconsfield 100! celebrations

Beaconsfield, Quebec — November 29, 2010 — If this is the time of year that conjures up images of frosty nights and twinkling lights and you're in need of a break in your pre-holiday preps, you may want to add a stroll through Beaconsfield's Centennial Park on December 11 to your list of must-dos.

After 100 years of setting the stage for the Party of the Century and nine months of straight celebrations, Beaconsfield will cap-off its Centenary with a major outdoor event that includes a parade, live music, entertainment, and a spectacular pyrotechnic finale.

The City, all aglow from the past year's festivities, will start the Wrap-Up Celebration at 6:30 with a few very exciting surprises thrown in. What is known, is that residents are asked to bring their noisemakers, march to the beat of drums and escort the Beaconsfield 100! Time Capsule to Centennial Park for its official sealing for the next 100 years.

Daniele Bouchard-Serhan, Beaconsfield Centennial 2010 Steering Committee Chair, reminisces about the 50 or so centenary events coordinated by the Committee that attracted thousands of people, to the June 4th Party of the Century, Walking Ghost Tours, numerous cultural events, exhibits and concerts.

"I'm grateful the community spirit that ignited Beaconsfield in 1910 is still alive and kicking today. It's given us warm memories of our distant past and of our centennial year when we came together to commemorate and celebrate," states Bouchard-Serhan. "Here's to the next 100!"

A warm welcome is extended to all.
